HUMAN RACE ENDURES DESPITE CRISIS

Practically every speaker, including those on the air and behind the pulpit, and many of our columnists, are busy advertising the crises at hand for humanity.

This is the day of great decisions," they assert, almost in unison, and upon the decisions we make, they say, rests the hope of humanity for years to come. The general idea seems to be to arouse the emotions of readers and listeners and thus persuade them to "unselfish action" which, it is suspected people apparently would not accept on the basis of intelligent argument.

While the people of the world do face great difficulties at the present time, there is no reason to believe that they are insurmountable or that they are unsurpassed in magnitude. Nearly every generation has heard the same theme advanced, as men and women battle for aims.

It may be encouraging to note that, so far, the human race has refused to commit suicide. It evidently possesses greater stability than some of its members would believe. Modern civilization, despite crises both real and imaginary—continues to spread throughout the earth and men and women everywhere seem to be making progress toward the goal of better human beings.

THE WORLD SHRINKS

It seems that only a few months separate advances in air travel, and that the world shrinks a little bit every time one of these new developments is announced. The latest announcement is not an announcement concerning a new passenger aircraft, or a scientific advancement.

The latest announcement is an achievement in the field of air fares. For many years now the international organization of airlines has maintained a high minimum on trans-Atlantic air fares. In other words, whereas American airlines transporting passengers from the United States to Europe, or vice versa, might have reduced fares long ago, many of the smaller airlines in the international organization could not operate successfully at drastically reduced fares, and have forced everyone to keep fares high.

Some progress has been made, however, and on April 1st, economy class will come into effect. One major American trans-Atlantic airline announced its April 1st rates recently. The cost of a round-trip to London was $450. One can remember when the one-way fare was almost as much.

* * * * * * * * *

Europe is a little closer to the United States and shrinks the earth just a little more — a process which never seems to end.

DECISIONS BUILD CHARACTER

While everyone likes to meet a child that is well-disciplined, very often disciplining a child to the extent that he is not given a chance to make any decisions can be very harmful to the proper development of the child. It is very important that parents and others, who are charged with training children, allow young people an opportunity to make decisions each day.

Allowing a child an opportunity to select the clothes he will wear on certain occasions often benefits the child, although the mother may be a little embarrassed at times. It also pays dividends to give a child some say as to which chore he would prefer to do. The psychology of deciding whether he would prefer to help with household chores or clean up the front lawn makes the young member of the family feel that he is a co-worker in a joint enterprise, rather than a private in the rear ranks just taking orders.

We have even heard about the mother who kept two bars of soap in the bathroom, so that her two-year-old could make a choice each day as to whether to use the white or the green soap. The young man or woman who is allowed to make decisions at all stages in life (in line with their maturity and judgment) will develop into a responsible citizen less likely to have mental breakdown than the individual whose parents have sheltered them from decisions.

A VALUABLE POSSESSION

The people of Appomattox have different religious beliefs, and worship according to their conscience without interference from the government and its officials.

Freedom of religious worship is one of the rights guaranteed by our form of government. Those who enjoy the blessing that it affords should be scrupulous in respecting the beliefs of those with whom they do not agree. There is a proper way to uphold and maintain religious freedom.

Religion in the United States, suffers no threat of dictatorship. Its worst enemy, as far as we can see, is the failure of individuals to put into practice the principles of the religion that they profess. It is idle to place absolute confidence in a creed that are not expressed in perfection, as it naturally with human beings in daily activities.

Possibly the editor of this newspaper never worried about religion until after the death of his father, but he is glad that he has such beliefs. The common task that confronts all men and women, of every religious persuasion, is to make their personal contribution in life so as to serve other people and their Maker.

Instead of fussing about non-essentials, we might follow the example of the great teacher who went about doing good. Life presents many pitfalls into which human beings stumble and plunge, and it is up to all of us to avoid them as best we can. When, unfortunately, some brother or sister stumbles, there is an opportunity for all of us to be helpful, if we are so minded.

The good Samaritan, in this year, 1958, will find much to do.

* * * * * * * * *

Too much talk loses many arguments.

* * * * * * * * *

Character is never established in a single year.

* * * * * * * * *

There are not enough people who can disagree and smile about it.

* * * * * * * * *

Advertising is the difference between many big businesses and smaller ones.

* * * * * * * * *

A little politeness goes a long way with most people, and is usually repaid two-fold.

* * * * * * * * *

One of these we will know the truth; in the meantime, we must grope for it as best we can.

Washington Notes

CONCESSIONS URGED

The United States is urging both France and Tunisia to make concessions in the tough tearms each has put forth for settling their bitter dispute over Algeria.

United States officials privately conceded that unless both sides are willing to give a little in the positions they have taken, the British-United States conciliation mission is faced with failure.

LAKE SURRENDERS $19

Clarksville, Ark.- Two years ago, Bob Brazil lost a billfold containing $19 when his boat capsized in Horsehead Lake.

Recently, while driving along the lake, he spotted an object lying on the shore line. It was his billfold still holding the $19.

The level of the lake was lowered several weeks ago, and the billfold was in the exact spot where the boat capsized.

MISSILES UNDERWAY

The United States Navy's crash program for future employment of the world's most advanced naval missiles is getting underway with submarines — as globe - ranging launching platforms for 1,500-mile ballistic missiles. Its aircraft-carrier ballistic missiles that can be fired underwater, is stirring the planners of other nations.

The American program moved into the hardware stage this month as the official announcement that construction of two enormous undersea craft, of 5,000 tons displacement — the world's largest — designed particularly to launch the Polaris missile, will be pushed as rapidly as possible in Connecticut and a third will be built in California.

U. S. WAXWORKS

The nation's capital has a new attraction, which, its planners hope, will draw as many visitors as the sprawling Smithsonian museums and the Washington Monument.

It is a "wax museum" of the type made famous by Mme. Tussaud, and it depicts great moments in American history.

ROAD SPENDING EYED

Both major parties took steps recently to spur the national road-way program.

Senator William F. Knowland, Republican, of California, revealed that after a regular meeting of party leaders with President Eisenhower, measures had been discussed to spend more on highways this year, but that no decision had been made.

CUT IN GUARD BARRED

A House Armed Services subcommittee has unanimously rejected a Defense Department plan to reduce Army National Guard and Army Reserve forces by 10 per cent.

The panel's decision was not final but it could lead to the defeat of Pentagon plans.

Alaska Hearing Set

The House Rules Committee has agreed informally to hold a hearing on Alaska statehood legislation later this month.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower has told Republican Congressional leaders he still hopes Congress would set this year on legislation to make both Alaska and Hawaii states.

For hot cakes that "stack up" with Mrs. M's you need an automatic
ELECTRIC RANGE
Mrs. Modern's "top" secret is the automatic top element on her new Electric Range. She just sets it to the right cake making temperature ... and that's the way it keeps the griddle, through batch after tender, golden batch of perfect hot cakes. And that's just one of its tricks—from frying chicken to simmering soup, with never a scorch or a boil-over!
And her oven has a memory! Like the automatic top element, it remembers the baking temperature she dials, and holds it any length of time. Best of all, it can remember to turn itself on and off at whatever hours Mrs. M commands. So she can leave it to bake whole meals all by itself!
Why not be Mrs. M, yourself? See the new model auto-magic Electric Ranges and "built-ins" at your Electric Appliance Dealer's soon. And to plan, room by room, for Better Electric Living all over your home, ask Vepco for the new fascinating, FREE HOUSEPOWER WIRING CHART.

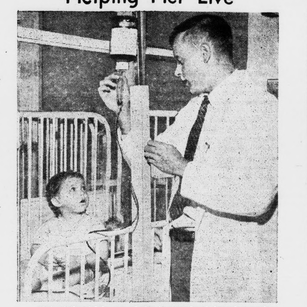
BONN PLANS AIR GRANTS

Bonn, West Germany.- A Transport Ministry spokesman recently announced that the West German Government has decided to make grants of up to $3,360,000 this year to encourage West German aviation research.

Helping Her Live



This little girl is one of the thousands of Americans who stay alive because their fellow citizens give their blood through the Red Cross. At the time the picture was taken, Cathy had received 85 tranfusions for a bleeding condition.

GERM-KILLING GAS

Jersey City, N. J.- An Army Chemical Corps scientist has announced the discovery of a germ-killing gas which may have wide use in sterilizing hospitals and defending against biological warfare.

Dr. C. R. Phillips, chief of the physical defense division of the Chemical Corps, at Fort Detrick, in Frederick, Md., said the gas is as effective as formaldehyde vapor but acts more rapidly with fewer adverse side effects. Its name is beta-propriolactone, a compound used previously only in liquid form.

STORK MIX-UP

East Providence, R. I.- Mrs. Rose Branco, 27, planned a stork shower for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Paolucci, to mark the latter's coming motherhood.

Mrs. Branco, however, wasn't present.

About an hour before the party, Mrs. Branco herself was taken to a hospital, where she gave birth to a boy.
